Program: Music in 13 Time
Date: April 27, 1955
Time: 3:00 - 4:00
Annor: R. Strauss

Theme: Up and under
Annor: Good afternoon! It is 3:00 and Music in 13 Time again.
Theme: Up and out
Annor: Today I thought that all of you music 13ers would like to have a review section on Romeo and Juliet especially since many of you probably saw the movie over the weekend. Tchaikowsky and Berlioz treat this play in two different ways. It will be interesting to see which you think relates mode to Shakespeare's play. Hector Berlioz created a dramatic symphony of many movements. Tchaikowsky's Overture Fantasia is a one movement work in sonata form with two main themes. Notice how the second lyrical theme shows the strong love of Romeo and Juliet in contrast to the first one which represents the feud of the Capulets in Tchaikowsky's Overture Fantasia.
Music: 18'30" - Side 1
Annor: You have been listening to Tchaikowsky's Overture Fantasia, Romeo and Juliet played by Arturo Toscanini and the NBC Symphony Orchestra. In contrast to this one movement work, Hector Berlioz created his Dramatic Symphony based on the same play. Let us now hear 3 orchestral excerpts, Romeo Alone, Fete at the Capulets and the Love Scene from the second part of Berlioz' Romeo and Juliet.
Music: 28'15" Side 2
Annor: You have just heard Romeo Alone, Fete at the Capulets and the Love Scene [Scherzo from Queen Mab] from the Dramatic Symphony Romeo and Juliet Opus 17 by Hector Berlioz.

after having reviewed these 2 works perhaps now you can come to a conclusion as to which one bears a closer resemblance to Shakespeare's play.

To close our program of music in 13 Time, I have a little treat in store. I'm sure everyone has picked a certain favorite from this week's assignment. Since I know that all of you picked the same one I did. Let's hear it now. Jan Reece to sing La Donne E Mobile from the fourth act of Verdi's opera Rigoletto.

Music: Band 4 - Side 1 - 1'47"

Anncr: I hope that this afternoon has been an enjoyable listening session for you all. Be sure to tune in again next week at ~~this time~~ 3:00 when to hear some more music in 13 time.

Theme: Up and out
